Assistance to the Shanghai Public Safety Bureau.

At the above stated times on date D.S.I. Jones, C.D.C. 281 attached to the Special Branch accompanied by Koh Lai (郭美), a representative of the Shanghai Public Safety Bureau came to the Station with 3 Shanghai Special District Search Warrants No. 691 and 692 to search the Nyi Da Book Store (现代书局), No. 92 Foochow Road and seize certain communistic publications entitled Dien Hoen Hyi Choch Zih (红霞戏曲集) Lieu Wong (流云) and Dzong Khong Hyi Tsau Tshoong Zuh (从中学到克己) books; and Search Warrant No. 690 to search and seize certain communistic publications entitled "Tshung Nyi (春风)" at the Kwang Wo (无华) Book Store, No. 552 Foochow Road. Assistance was rendered by C.D.S. 6 and the undersigned, at No. 92 Foochow Road, 23 copies of the Dzong Khong Hyi Tsau Tshoong Zuh were found on a counter in the shop, but no copies of the Lieu Wong were found in the shop. From one named Yih Ling Voong (叶灵凤) the shop editor it was learned that about 3 years ago he bought a large number of second hand books from the Shanghai United Book Store on Foochow Road when the shop closed, which included a number of copies of the Dzong Khong Hyi Bau Tshoong Zuh books of which all had been sold except the two copies seized.

Regarding the "Lieu Wong" book the editor stated that they had not any of these copies in the shop and had not

With reference to the endorsement of the Officer translations of the most reactionary parts of the the opinion that there is very little in it which can

Translation of extracts from a booklet entitled
"Art Methods."

Page 59

The proletarian literary arts are those of the dialectical materialism. At present, on the initiative of the Soviet Union, the branches of the International Revolutionary Writers League in various countries have abolished the slogan "Proletarian realism" and replaced it with that of "Struggle for the art methods of dialectical materialism."

Page 91

In many proletarian writings the atrocities and greediness of the capitalists as well as the sorrow and poverty of the labouring classes are described in length. The details are gone into very closely and proletarian novels are now often labelled as "Strike Novels," "Demonstration Novels," etc.

Proletarian literature is the weapon for class struggles. This has been proved to us as being a formula. Although we are quite aware that the literature itself cannot replace the real guns and warships, nevertheless the proletarian literature changes the thoughts by disclosing the fundamental methods and objects by virtue of materialism.

At 10 a.m. on December 7 Clerk Fang Kuo Liang, C.D.S. 48 and the undersigned from this Section, together with D.S.I. Barton and C.D.S. 36 attached to Central Station, rendered assistance to Detective Wong Wen Tsing (王文俊) of the Shanghai Public Safety Bureau and Mr. Tu Mang Sung (杜孟森), an official from the local District Kuomintang, in searching the Nyi Dah (现代) Book Store, No. 92-93 Foochow Road. The raid was made in accordance with the terms of Warrant No. 650 which authorised the search for, and seizure of, certain communistic publications entitled "Lieu Wong" (流氓), "Dah Ling Woo Siau Ling" (大林和小林) and "Bing Ling Tah Tsz Zih" (平林妻子集).

When the object of our visit was made known to Loo Chien Jen (盧建人), Acting Manager of the Store, the latter voluntarily produced a copy of each of the publications named and explained that on November 13 he had received instructions from the General Manager of the Nyi Dah Book Store to destroy the remaining copies in stock of these publications. In compliance with these instructions he burned a number of these books at 3 p.m. on November 19. The three books produced were being retained as samples.

Assisted by D.S.I. White and C.D.C. 221 of West Hongkew Station the party from the Special Branch, together with the Public Safety Bureau and Kuomintang representatives, next conducted a search at the store place of the Nyi Dah Bookshop situated at No. 10 Lane 696, Haining Road. None of the books objected to was found at this address.

Our third and last raid was made at the Dah Kiang (大江) Book Store, No. 3, Lane 177, Tsepoo Road. At this address more than 500 copies of the reactionary booklet mentioned in Warrant

No. 649, together with 26 matrices, were seized. The person in charge of the store, one Sung Ching Sung (沈敬遜), when questioned by the undersigned, stated that permission to sell these books had been officially granted by the Kuomintang at Nanking some four months ago. Asked to produce the letter authorising sale, Sung informed the undersigned that it was locked in the safe, the key of which was in the possession of the General Manager who was absent at the time.

The publications and matrices seized were deposited at the Station concerned and will be conveyed to Court on the morning of December 8, when application will be made for their disposal. The managers of the Nyi Dah and the Dah Kiang bookshops have been notified that the matter will be settled in Court the following morning.

Made by D.S.I. White. Forwarded by

Sir,

At 10.15 a.m. the 7-12-33 D.S. Jones and C.D.S. 48 attached to the Special Branch (Political Section) visited West Hongkew Station in the company of representatives of the Public Safety Bureau (Political Section), Mantao, namely, Sub-Inspts. Wong Vung Tsing (王文俊) and Doo Mang Sung (杜孟森) and requested assistance to execute certain search warrants issued by the 1st Special Area District Court at the instigation of the Public Safety Bureau.

Search Warrant No. 650 refers to the search of the Hyi Dah Book Store (现代), Foochow Road (Central District) and the printing establishment of the same concern located at Lane No. 696 House No. 10 Haining Road.

Necessary assistance was rendered the aforementioned party by D.S.I. White and C.D.C. 221. The search warrant was executed at 10.30 a.m. even date, when a search of the premises failed to reveal any publications, i.e. 'Lieu Wong' (流亡) 'Dah Lin Hoo, Siau Ling' (大林和小林) and 'Bing Lin Tah Tsz Zih' (平林妻子记) or manuscripts appertaining thereto and mentioned in the search warrant, on the premises. The identical party of police then proceeded to Lane No. 177 House No. 3 Tsepo Road, where Search Warrant No. 649 was executed at 10.50 a.m. even date. This warrant refers to the seizure of a publication entitled 'Hyih Zuh Faung Fah Lung' (卫生方法论) car-board mattresses for printing same. These premises are occupied by the Dah Chang Book Store (大江) and the accountant of the business named Kwok Tsau Sih (郭照熙) on being questioned by detectives readily admitted that the concern had copies of the publication in stock and subsequently handed over to the police 569 copies of the aforementioned publication, together with 26 card-board mattresses for printing same. Enquiries of the aforesaid accountant elicited the information that about 4 months prior to publication of the book the manuscripts were forwarded to the Hanking Government for perusal and comments regarding publication of the book. A letter was subsequently received from Hanking Government sanctioning the publication of the book and therefore the concern acted on same. This particular warrant is solely issued for searching purposes and although the publication mentioned in the warrant was found on the premises no arrests were effected. Seven copies of the book were taken away by the representatives of the Special Branch, S.M.P. and the Public Safety Bureau. Application will be made before the S.S.D. Court in the forenoon of the 8-12-33, for an order

Sir,

We have received confidential order No. 1267 from the Municipality of Greater Shanghai transmitting confidential dispatch No. 2818 character Ching(警) from the Ministry of Home Affairs which states as follows:-

"We have received confidential letter No. 372 from the Propaganda Committee of the Central Kuomintang Headquarters requesting the suppression by the Shanghai Authorities of a book entitled "Art Methods", written by Chuan Kiang Hao(川江浩) and translated by Lee Sung Pao(森堡), and published by the Dah Kiang(大江) Bookstore, Shanghai." The book contains proletarian doctrines."

Upon receipt of the order from the Municipality of Greater Shanghai, we have ascertained that the bookstore in question is located at Nos. 1 and 2 (old number 584), Ching Shing(青 兴 里) Li, North Honan Road near Tsepoo Road. Apart from applying for a search warrant from the Shanghai Special District Court, we request you to send detectives to assist our officers in conducting a search of the said bookstore and to instruct the bookstore to hand over all copies of the book "Art Methods" (艺术方法) as well as the paper-mache blocks, all of which we request you to hand over to our officers to be brought to this Bureau for destruction.
